Inspirations

- “The particular values characteristic of any work of art are those which humanity has held in high esteem for an infinite time. These are truth, honesty, mastery, beauty, dedication and individuality. These value concepts imbue visualizing art as a form of pre-occupation with moral values,” Anonymous, from chalkboard University of VT classroom 1974
- “Photo I” – one’s eye and soul are the tool, not the camera and lens.

Steps to a Photography Addiction

- 1964: 35mm Olympus Range Finder for 17th birthday.
- 1969. Built first darkroom to develop (pun) technique and vision through experimentation, trial and error. Lots of errors. 😊
- Decided photography was to be an avocation. Being a teacher in The Bronx, had time and resources to pursue photography for love. Students provided much subject matter.
